Cases

- R v K: Our client was a key defendant with 12 others, charged with the murder of a stranger in East London, linked to events via complex telephonic evidence. Client was of good character and in his defence a decision was taken to deploy no fewer than 12 character witnesses. He was acquitted after a trial lasting 3 months.
- R v A: A carefully plotted conspiracy to murder an entire family of gangsters in London by explosion. Defendant acquitted of all serious charges after 2 month trial
- R v B: £250 M cannabis importation conspiracy. Client eventually pleaded guilty to actions limited to logistical involvement after a lengthy process of negotiation with the prosecution to receive a short custodial sentence.
- R v C: Two brothers charged with murder of the lover of a close relative whilst that relative's partner was in prison abroad. Both acquitted in the face of forensic and telecommunication evidence after a 6 week trial.

- R v D: Attempted murder (firearm), Aggravated burglary and GBH. Defendant acquitted after a two week trial, after establishing that 3 leading prosecution witnesses were concerned in the sale of Class A drugs.
- R v E: Manager of a branch of a large National DIY and Tool Hire chain acquitted (with good character in tact) of thefts after a two week trial.
- R v F: £7M global regulatory conspiracy involving the marketing and sale of illicit medical products in the EU
